A CHRISTIAN MINISTRY TO THE MEN OF TODAY AND TOMORROW

Men, this is a list of questions that Stacy and I were given to prepare for an interview in a young married couples' class at our church. Our preparation for the interview during a date night was as much fun as actually sharing the answers with the class. Would you Go First! for the health of your marriage by planning a date night with your wife and discussing these items? The exercise could produce lots of laughs and some great blessings for your marriage! Mike

Preparing for a Marriage Interview

Questions Developed by Kyle LaClair

Tell us how long you've been married, and about the names and ages of your children.

Give us a brief explanation of how you each came to trust Christ for your salvation.

Tell us about how you met.

How long did you date before you got married?

What was your first year of marriage like?

What is something you wish you had known when you were newly married?

What is something you struggle with now in your marriage, and how do you deal with it?

With the busyness of children and full-time ministry, how do you make time for each other?

What were your expectations of husband/wife roles before you were married, and how did those change (if they did) after you were married?

Did you have any misconceptions about roles?

Husband, what does loving your Wife like Christ loved the church look like for you?

How often do you evaluate how you are doing as a husband?

Wife, what does being subject to your Husband as to the Lord look like for you?

What does it look like in your marriage when there is a disagreement about a decision that needs to be made?

How do you model Biblical husband/wife roles in front of your children?
